Fall is that time of year to enjoy while you can. Enjoy the beauty, the outdoors, the weather, the people;

fall is the time to do it, especially if you don't enjoy bare trees, more books, and blizzards.

Chorale Tour

What happens when twenty-four student doubling as chorale members pack up and go the Florida? Well, there is some "load" work, lots of eating, times of standing around not knowing what to do, times of standing around making it look like you know what you are doing, and times of unique ministry for the glory of God. That's what happens on a chorale tour.

Happenings

Happenings are those events which make college life more meaningful and sometimes more frustrating. The unity of spirit among guys to decorate a wing, a special meal at a special time, one of those tests that you have to take to graduate, long hours in the library, and the beauty of a sunset; all of these contribute to the happenings around B.C.

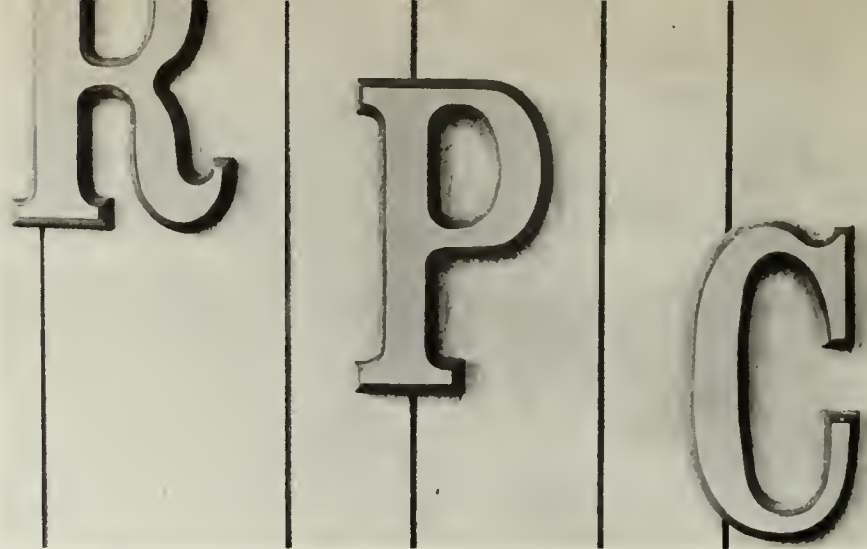

The '78 Dedication

Rich Cook is an intense person. Because of his intensity and dedication to any work he undertakes, the 1977-78 Vine is being dedicated to him.

Some students (especially those with large bills) feel threatened by him. But for those who really get to know Rich, they find him to be a personable business manager who cares about where the student is at; the student rates with him.

Administration and Organizations

What goes into earning a doctorate? For Duane Beals, Chairman of the Department of Pre-Seminary studies, it involved many hours in his basement study. His private niche provided the seclusion necessary to do research work and replace many a typewriter ribbon. All this, for the benefit of us students and to further glorify God, gives us cause to congratulate Dr. Beals for this accomplishment awarded August 5, 1977.

A Doctorate Earned

Prof. Willis Becomes Dr. Willis Leaves For Scripture Ministries

The graduates of '78 will remember Wes as the C.E. professor who managed to keep the Intro to C.E. class interesting and stimulating at 7:30 a.m. every Monday, Wednesday and Friday. All will remember his wit and humor along with his desire for excellence.

Mr. Willis became Dr. Willis in April of 1978. He completed his graduate work at Indiana University. Dr. Willis leaves Fort Wayne Bible College to become Executive Vice-President for Scripture Ministries. F.W.B.C. will lose a fine man, but we should anticipate some excellent contribution from Scripture Ministries.

You can tell Deb Pasko, Office Manager, enjoys her work.

The Year In Retrospect

A foot and a half of water filled the transmitter building during the flood in March, but none of the equipment was damaged.

Right: To the joy of everyone, a faithful Sharathon worker marks the new total.

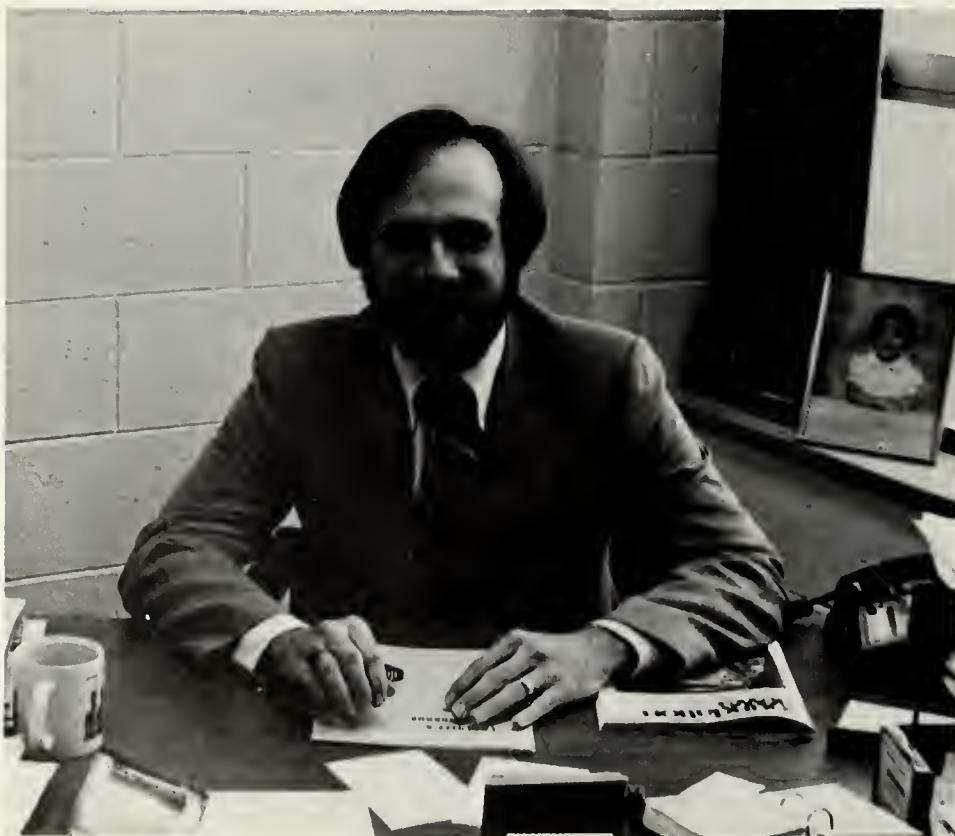

The January Sharathon gave evidence that the Lord is truly blessing the two-year-old ministry of WBCL. Listeners pledged $106,000, far surpassing the goal of $85,000. The tremendous support from the listeners made way for 24-hour broadcasting to begin in July. Radio Rallies, community events such as the Three Rivers Festival and county fairs, all play an important part at WBCL for they enable the staff to meet the people that listen each day. The encouraging comments they share show that the Lord is using WBCL to His glory!

It's Worth It

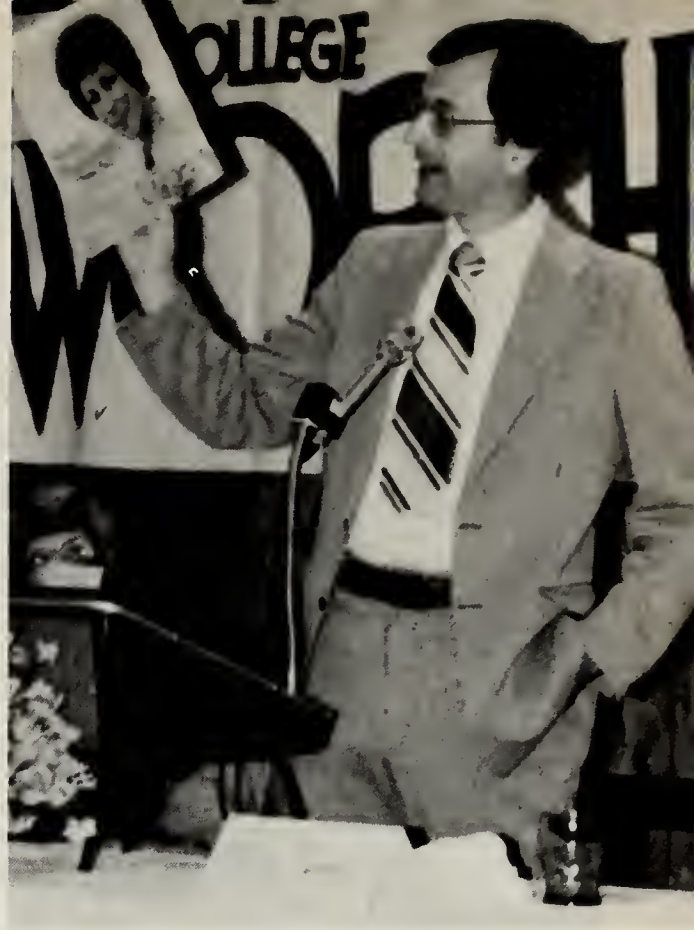

An intensive and extensive project to promote Fort Wayne Bible College and to raise money in the "It's Worth It" campaign involved banquets in various cities throughout the East and Midwest. Supporters and friends of the college were invited to share in these banquets. A typical evening included the meal and special music. Sharon Brumbaugh traveled to the banquets and sang and also the Chorale found their way to some of the banquets to provide choral arrangements. A film featured the college as well as the opportunity for participation in the overall program of Fort Wayne Bible College. The banquets will be carried on in future years with the same basic emphasis, and with a wider representation of cities.

Student Association Presents Student

Association Presents Student Association

The Student Association of 1977-1978 presented a wide variety of activities for the student body to participate in. The steering committee planned at least one event a week thus providing something to do for those stranded on campus. The committee of Wes Willis, Russ Rogers, Don Deighton, Tom Wilson, Ellen Springer, Jay Marquart, and Karen Slaughter were kept busy figuring out which event would go where at what time. Movies (rated G of course), skating parties, variety shows and outdoor festivities were a few of the things that Student Association presented for the student body. A sign of their effectiveness was the student participation in these events. Many students departed from their academic adventures and even their not-so-academic endeavors to get in on the fun.

Student Association's versatile nature was also expressed in their

'30 minutes'. Whether their 30 minutes was serious or just plain ridiculous, they always had something unique to offer B.C.

Veterans of B.C. recognized and appreciated the superior performance of the Student Association. There is a tough act to follow, but the committee of 1978-79 are committed to continuing in their own style the work of Student Association.

Schultz and Parents Win

One of the biggest weekends on campus involves Parent's Day. This weekend is so big that even Schultz gets its semi-annual cleaning in preparation for it. Parent's Day '78 provided some special events such as the dorm decorating contest and the B.C. Olympics in which the parents participated. The competition was intense, but (as usual) Schultz came out as the winner of the contests. Lexington, Bethany and the Out Houses did provide formidable competition, however. The girls and parents were surprised that Schultz could be clean and creative all on the same weekend.

The day was capped by a worship service led by Russ. It was a fitting tribute to the parents and their day at Fort Wayne Bible College.

Dramas Come

Two drama groups trooped to B.C. during the year. Lamb's Players put on several varieties of performances while Everyman Player's put on a staged presentation of the Book of Romans. Both groups ministered effectively to the B.C. community through a unique medium.

Tom Key As C.S. Lewis

Because of his multiplicity, C.S. Lewis is an extremely difficult character to portray. Tom Key attempted and mastered this very thing in his performance of "C.S. Lewis's Screw Tape and Other Worlds". The act was stimulating to those not familiar with Lewis and produced the desire to further explore the riches of Lewis. For those familiar with 'Jack' and his writings, the performance was an outstanding tribute to the man and his works.

In a real sense, one who missed the performance missed an introduction to C.S. Lewis. But the one who witnessed Tom Key as C.S. Lewis witnessed his person and character.

Christmas time at B.C. witnessed the fruit of a full semester's labor. Choral Union had practiced many hard and long hours to present Handel's "Messiah". Sunday, December 12, 1977, brought an audience of about 600 to be ministered to by this sacred oratorio. The Fort Wayne Bible College Orchestra provided accompaniment, under the direction of Mr. Jay Platte, Director of the Music Department. Guest soloists highlighted the afternoon performance.

Chorale And Choral Union

Every year Jay Platte puts together a new edition of Chorale and Choral Union. This year's Chorale took a trip to Florida and they sang at the banquets as well as other events. They joined with the other members of Chorale Union for the Messiah and a musical at the end of the year, "God's Trombones", "Moses", and "Shadrach" as their last performance.

Shiloh

Every year young and talented musicians travel as Christian Service singing groups. These groups represent Fort Wayne Bible College as they minister to congregations on weekends. They also play a role in ministry at B.C. during the year and at Youth Conference.

Much time is involved in preparation and in ministry for the groups. Last year the three groups travelled 12,855 miles. They held 141 services, gave 307 testimonies, and sang 1,050 songs. As a result of their ministry nine people committed their lives to Jesus Christ.

All In A Day At The Cafeteria

Some complaints were heard about the food, but then there were many compliments too. Regardless of how one felt about the food, somehow he kept coming back for more. Some came to work, some to eat, some to 'heat', but all came back; it's all in a day at the cafeteria.

Lexington living

Below: Deb Draa tries to avoid the yearbook photographer.

Living in Lexington means the fun of Secret Sis presents and beating Bethany in baseball games. It's the frustration of washing hair and having the drain clog, contrasted with the excitement of dates and engagements. In winter, Lexington brings cold walks and sometimes near isolation from the rest of the campus. Most of all, Lexington provides a proving ground for Christian love.

"Faithfulness in the little things." Jana Bellar, Resident Advisor, taught and lived her motto throughout the year.

Life In Bethany

Here it is guys—an inside look at Bethany Hall. With all the mess you would think you were looking at a room in Schultz. I am sure that Carolyn and Cassie do not allow their room to be that messy too often—just about 91% of the time. Sleep sure looks good and Gail is a perfect example. From what I hear Gail sleeps anytime—even in class. No, girls are not on the phone more than guys. Come to think of it though maybe Becky is. She might be negotiating a deal to buy more squirt guns. That is all Bethany needs! Bonnie looks like she has been busy. The next time you see her why don't you ask her what she had been doing.

Did you know that Pooh bears study? Would you say that Evie is a good example for all Poohs? Relaxing and goofing around seem to be much more popular pastimes. Joanne seems to be enjoying herself as she gets pictures of all the goof offs. Now to consider a very serious problem—the wash. As all Bethany girls know, after washing your clothes you better have an iron handy. The dryers have no consideration for permanent press labels. I am sure that Joanne B. can tell you what nice things the dryers do to clothes.

Hall Of Habitation

Originally designed for studying, it's also

Li ● brary: A place where books, musical scores, or other literary and artistic manuscripts are kept for use but not for sale.

Where do B.C. students go when they feel like doing something, meeting someone, or passing time? They go to the student center, right? . . . No? . . . The TV lounge? . . . No? . . . Any wise B.C. student would go to the library. This is B.C.'s most versatile building.

. . . an excellent place to have a party.

When absolutely necessary it can also be used for research.

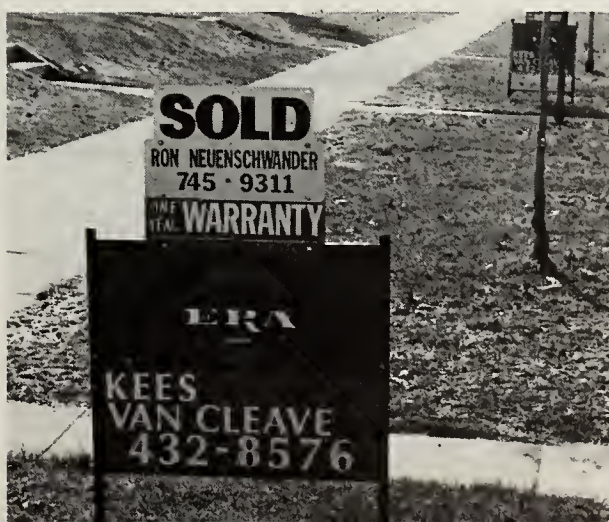

The pictures basically tell the story. After years of ownership by Fort Wayne Bible College, both Cavender and White House were sold. The reasons for this were in part to relieve the cash flow problem and to begin preparation for expansion. There are plans to build on South Campus in the future. Cavender and White House were released as part of this program.

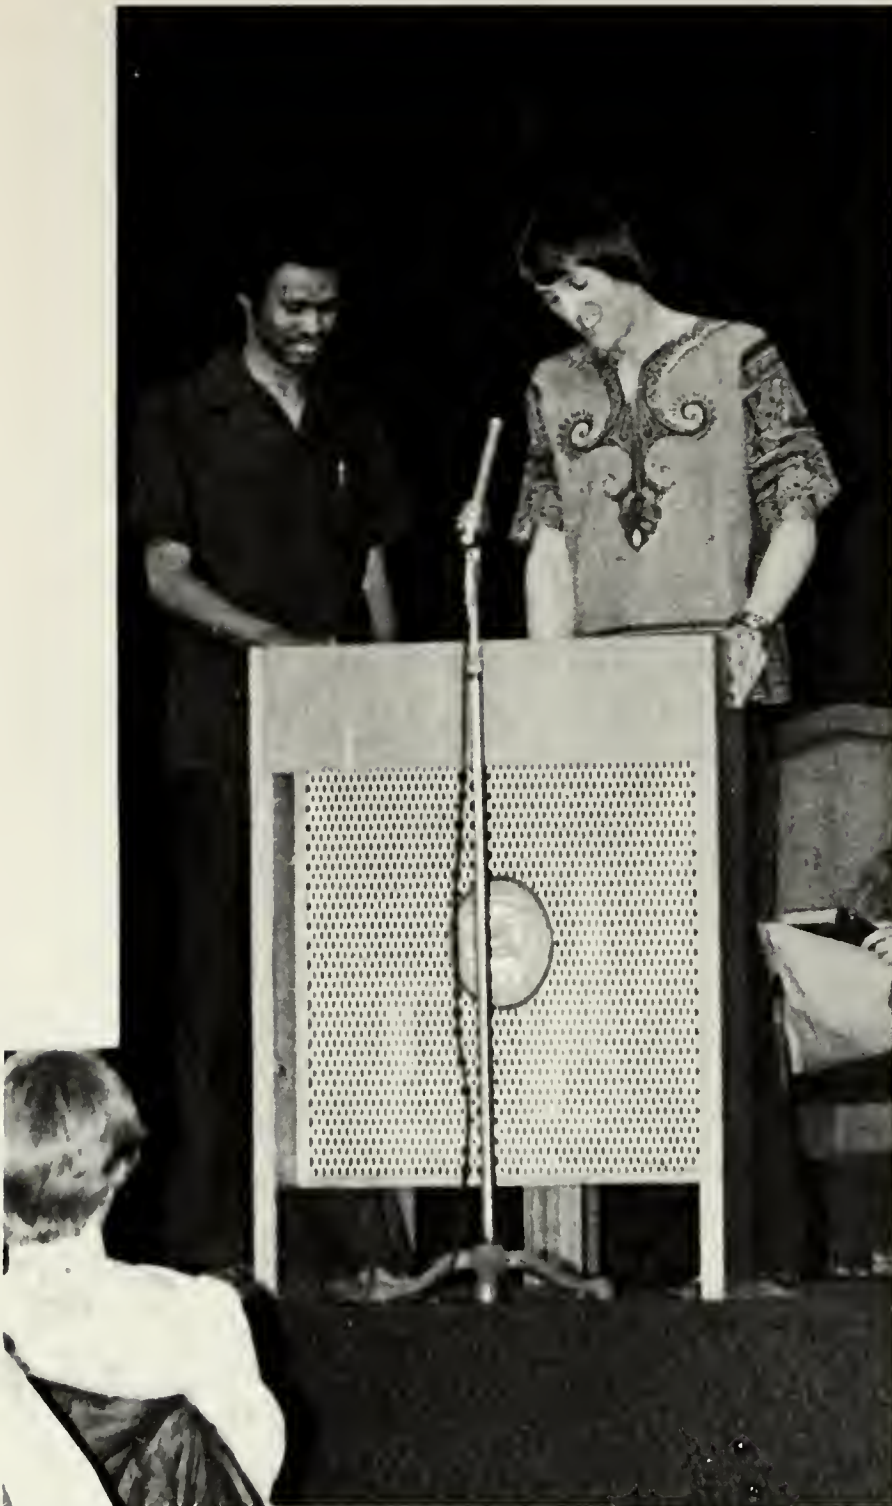

Many memories go with the houses, particularly with Cavender. It was the women's honor dorm, thus housing some of B.C.'s finest. White House was used in a variety of capacities. It was both a men and women's dorm (but not at the same time) and at times it has stood vacant. Old memories and new friends will now characterize what used to be Cavender and White House.

Fellowship

During the year this group shared much while promoting missions. They pushed for greater prayer involvement. They organized evangelistic thrusts to the center city of Fort Wayne. They sponsored an outreach to Florida in the spring and had a commissioning service for twelve students going overseas on missions during the summer. Each of those students received sizable checks from the committee treasurer. The treasurer reached his goal of an eight thousand dollar budget. He and the program chairman worked in close cooperation during the year. It had been no mean feat to arrange thirty minute programs every Friday chapel service of the college year.

To keep the channels of communication open and working well between the committee members and the chairman all had been kept busy. It had been good to be a part of that committee. It had been an encouragement to see what had been accomplished. Some people on campus had found new directions for their lives through the ministry of the Student Missionary Fellowship. The ready cooperation of students had spoken well for the commitment to missions at Fort Wayne Bible College.

I'd Rather Be Sheeting

What do you do in the middle of the afternoon when you are seeing double? You hit the sheets. What do you do after you finish a Dr. Wes assignment and can hardly stay awake? You hit the sheets.

'Sheeting' took the campus by snooze last year. It was basically begun by Rich Sommers while Jon Caskey was also a big proponent of it. If you can ever find them while they're awake they will relate to you the fundamentals of sheeting or 'getting happy'.

What is the criteria for a successful sheeteer? Well, if you have hit the sheets and are in dreamland by 8:30 p.m. then you are on your way. But, if you can wake-up and get out of the sheets at 7:55 a.m. and make it to your 8:00 class, then you have mastered sheeting.

Whether you are a master or not, being happy while sleeping in the sheets is happiness all look forward to (if they can stay awake that long).

B C's Angels

Deep in the night, one might spy suspicious activity.

It may be one of "the angels,"

Candy Snyder and Pamela Padgett managed the campus health center. Together they maintained medical supplies, kept student medical records, and provided round the clock emergency health care for the campus. Administering medication and moral support is a routine aspect of the nurses' job. Their favorite treatment is "Drink lots of fluids and gargle salt water."

Spring

Spring Has Sprung

After the winter and blizzard of '78, it was nice to see spring roll around again. It was a wet spring, but you don't have to shovel rain and it's hard to get stuck in it. Spring provided the opportunity to get outside and catch up on some activities that were missed during the winter.

Spring sort of makes you feel like a kid again. Blowing bubbles, 'toasting' outside of Bethany, jogging, studying and making it look like you are studying are all a part of spring. It is a time when nature wakes up and becomes 'new' again and a time when the classroom really gets old!

During Spring there always seems to be something better to do than study. The tennis courts, and the golf courses, and just being outdoors seem to have precedence over Theology or even Marriage and Family. Walks down to Foster Park resume as does bicycle riding. As people come out of hibernation, friendships are renewed and new friends are found. Appreciation of nature and the squirrels around campus rises. Even the traffic barrelling down Rudisill doesn't seem quite so fanatic.

Despite all of this the students (and professors) somehow keep at the academics, although now and then succumbing to the lure of that which is provided for us in Spring.

Spring means that it is very difficult to stick with it.

Spring Means

Spring means chucking it for awhile

Spring means chowin' down

Spring means going home to enjoy it all

The Softball Championship Of FWBC

The faculty took the field for a softball game with the students. They started out big when Jay Platte (yes, Jay Platte) hit a three-run home run. Those runs turned out to be the only ones the faculty could get across the plate. The students ran up 15 runs before it was over. The balanced hitting and tremendous fielding of the students proved too much for the "Over-the-Hill Gang." The Gang were good sports about their defeat and will be around next year.

The response from "Cut-Out" was indicative of all the preparation that had gone into it. For one year the Youth Conference Steering Committee laid down the plans for this one weekend. As the year went on other students got into the act to help make Cut-Out a success. It was a total effort by B.C. and the results in terms of response were well worth the work.

The weekend was packed with activities and events, yet it went smoothly. There was always something to either keep the conferees out of trouble or get them into it. And, as usual, little in the area of sleep was accomplished during

The conferees came from as far as Tuscon and Philadelphia. Their response to the weekend was evident when many of them were reluctant to go home. However, the B.C. students encouraged them on their way so they could recover in time for Youth Conference '79.

Ron Hutchcraft was the speaker for the weekend. His messages were centered around "Cut-Out From," "Cut-Out To," and "Cut-Out For." Ron led the audience into a meaningful response.

Cut-Up

Gordon Leadfoot and Neil Dialtone

Friday night after the service, the hams of F.W.B.C. cut-up on stage during Comicality. There was a variety of "talent" witnessed by the audience. The performers assumed that the absence of rotten tomatoes and jeers indicated a good performance, as did the lively response.

The Obstacle Course

Sunday Morning

Sunday morning rolled around and Youth Conference '78 was about to come to an end. The special music that Sharon Brumbaugh shared Saturday night was continued as the Chorale and Choral Union sang Sunday morning. This performance finished the musical group concerts which included Shiloh, Master

Design and Well Spring. Ron delivered his final message and encouraged all to continue their "Beach-head Christianity" when they returned home. Cut-Out '78 wrapped up with that and the conferees packed up and started for home, taking a part of Cut-Out home.

Russ directs the singing during the service.

Redman Sings At Banquet

The Ramada Inn was the scene of the 1978 Junior-Senior Banquet. The Juniors prepared the evening for the Seniors and began with a skit recalling the years spent at B.C. Michael Redman, who has many T.V. appearances to his credit, performed for the group. After the banquet some faculty members held receptions in their homes for the students to finish the evening.

The Juniors help the Seniors to remember some of the events of their college career.

Faces In The Crowd

Two quite familiar faces.

The voices of these faces are often heard but rarely seen around B.C.

A studious face.

Senior Parent Reception

Don Deighton reads his version of the "Gettysburg Address".

Gary Culbertson discusses with his mother his feelings after those traumatic years of study.

After four years of parental guidance, the parents of the graduates of '78 were given the opportunity to meet the persons responsible for the education of their sons and daughters. The Senior-Parent Reception began with a program by the Seniors for the parents. Following that the introduction of the faculty and staff were made to the parents by their graduating children. A time of refreshment was provided to enable the parents to cross-examine those entrusted to the care of their children.

Senior Skip Day . . . A Trip To The Zoo

The Seniors that went on the trip.

The Seniors decided to skip school one day and go to Chicago. They were tired of all their academic endeavors and took a trip to the Brookfield Zoo to see how the other half lives. Early Friday morning the Seniors were packed in the vehicles and the caravan was off. Two good buddies, Rod "Ice Man" Mosiman and Mark "Bat Man" Longcor directed the caravan to its aforementioned 10-20 with only a few hassles along the way. The trip proved to be quite interesting.

Standing around not exactly sure what is going on.

Some of the group pose for a picture.

There were car antics and trouble along the way.

Refuge.
I need no other argument, I need no other plea,
It is enough that Jesus died, And that He died for me.
Enough for me that Jesus says, This ends my fear and doubt,
A sinful soul I come to Him, He'll never let me out.
My heart is leaning on the Word, The written Word of God,
Salvation by His Savior's name, Salvation thro' His blood.
My great Physician heals the sick, The lost He came to seek,
For me His precious blood He shed, For me He gave His gas.

Wes Willis Delivers His Final B.C. Message

Commencement 1978

Dr. Carl Lundquist, President of Bethel College and Seminary and the N.A.E., was the guest speaker.

“Finished The Course”

After checking to see if the diploma was actually signed, there was some rejoicing among the graduates. There were also some graduates who found out that there was a little more work to be done yet. Regardless of one's state, there was the feeling of accomplishment just in having gone through the exercises. After it was over, there was a time to congratulate those who had struggled their way to that degree and came out victoriously. There was a sad note in that some of the Class of '78 might not see one another again; but, rejoicing prevailed.

Post-session

While most B.C. students have gone home for the summer and are either working or basking in the sun, there is a remnant that stays on for post-session. These dedicated students keep at the books for another two weeks or so to improve their academic lot. Post-session provides some unique situations in the classroom. Teachers become students, chairmen become teachers, and students become engulfed with work. There are some things which remain constant. For example, Mr. Demond uses his overheads and passes out a few handouts.

Mary Waddell takes on yet another theology assignment.

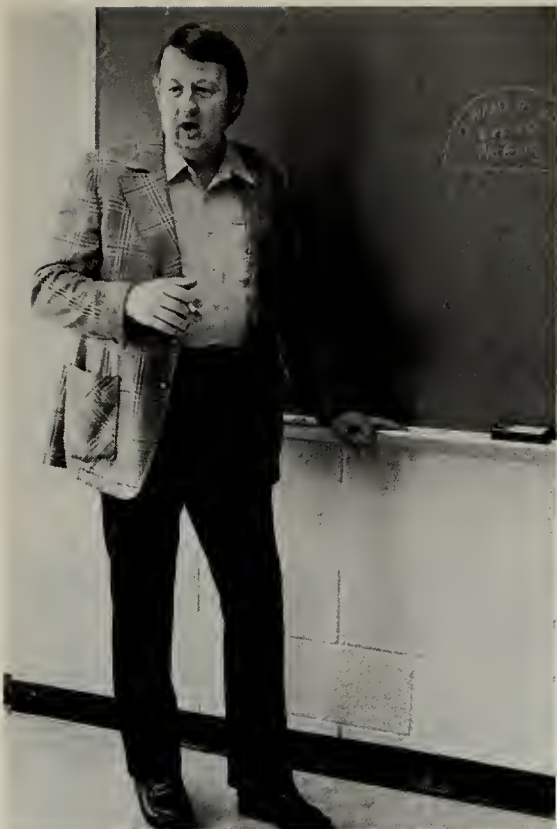

Post-session involves much work while in class.

Dale Ferrier gets into the teaching scene.

Professor Joe Snider becomes a student during post-session.

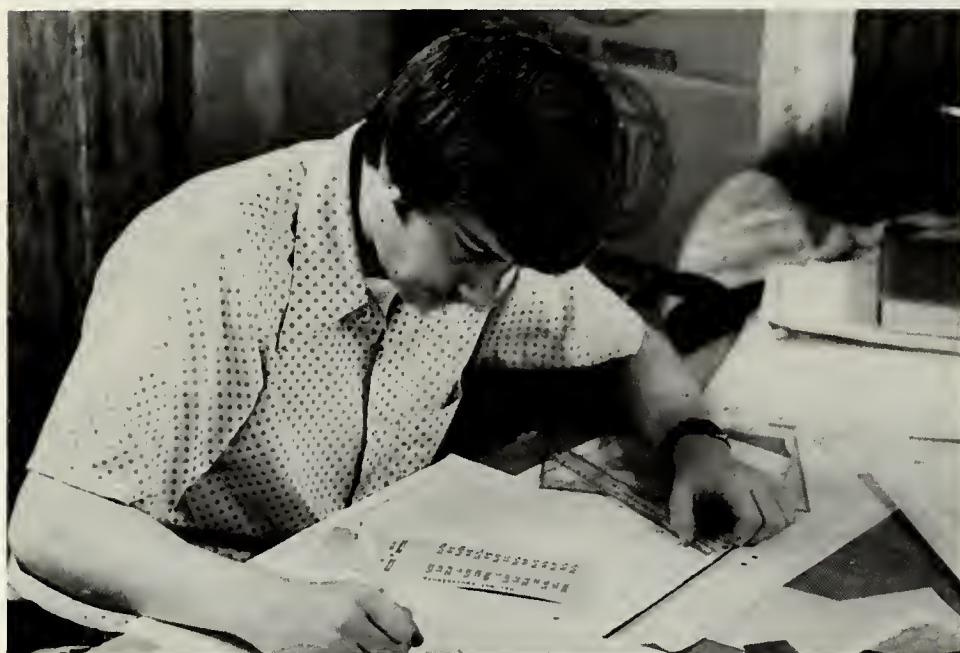

Ron Farb is also in the theology dilemma.

Biblical backgrounds are under discussion by Dr. Weddle.

The Vine

Few people realize the amount of work that goes into the yearbook. Hours of time and effort go into layouts, pictures, and piecing it all together. Fitting the right material for the right place makes the Vine a real challenge. This might give you an idea of what it's like.

An Afterword:

Our Past Has Departed; God's Now Is Eternal

A yearbook permanently stores memories in its pages of a year gone by. It has the ability to captivate us for hours as we look and remember times that seemed at the moment unbearable and almost unending, but in reality were tolerable and even enjoyable after all. We occasionally might sense the nostalgia that yearns to be there again for just a moment—a moment of time when life at B.C. could be real again. Somehow it would be worth the theology assignments, crossing Rudisill Blvd. eight hundred times a day, and the phones always being busy just when we wanted them most. But going back is not to be. Life has gone on and even if we could go back it would probably be different than our dreams led us to believe. We are in the ever present now; that which has past is gone, that which is ahead is still somewhat of a mystery; therefore now is the time.

The fulfillment of this here-and-now includes every moment which God has imparted to us. Whatever the time span between departure from B.C. and reviewing captured memories in this book, when considering them, let us consider this: God's eternal now involves thoughts and actions we have and have had throughout life—before, during, and after B.C. Whatever the time might be, we should ask ourselves “What is my response and my relationship to Him in His eternal now?”

Credits

I would like to thank Dr. Grant Hoatson for his work as an advisor for The Vine. Gary Inglese did the cover, the color winter shots, and some of the other photography. Jay Platte ‘shot’ the Chorale Tour. Al Latino as the Layout Editor was the book's and my ‘right-hand’ man. Marsha Byall did the typing for the book and was priceless in putting together the finishing touches. She added a touch of her own class to the book. The first and second semester Publications Workshop classes also contributed to the book. Finally much appreciation and respect goes to Miss Eunice Conrad. When I was being considered for the editorship, a question arose as to whether or not she and I could work together (if you know me, you might realize that at times I can be rather difficult to be in partnership with). Although problems arose, our year together showed me that she is a very competent person; Miss C is good. Working with her has been quite an experience—a profitable one for me and, I hope (through all the headaches), for her also.
